

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

by the noted author
Idah McGlone Gibson

A Letter From Karl Shepard
"I think in time, my dear Katherine, you will come to be like me. It is only that I have grown sensible sooner than you; perhaps sooner than most women. But I believe every woman comes to accept life as it is and not as she wishes it to be if she lives long enough."

With this Alice left me and I prepared for bed. I do not know when I went to sleep, but when I awakened in the morning, I remembered that my last thought before unconsciousness was not of my husband, Alice, or any of my affairs, but of Karl Shepard. I am not sure whether I was awake part of the time or whether I had a very visible dream but I seemed to hear his voice calling, calling to me, saying:

"Katherine, it is so. There are men who can love devotedly all their lives. And then it must have been a dream, for I plainly saw Karl Shepard sitting away out on the bow of the boat looking over an exquisite moonlit sea. He was all alone and his face was impressively sad. The deck was deserted and I got the impression it was very late. Suddenly I saw his face brighten and it seemed as though he felt my nearness for he said to me, saying:

"I want to make you happy." "It is all right, Katherine; it is all right. I only want to make you happy. Fate has played me a rather scurvy trick, my dear, when there are so many other women in the world to insist that I shall love you, but I am going to be true—not only to you, but to my friend John Gordon and I am going to stay away from you, my dear, until I can look both you and him in the eye and call you friends and know in my inmost heart that I speak truthfully. Now, of course, I am friends to both of you, but I am not in love with you, Katherine. I love you, and because I love you I am your husband's enemy, for I did not think it possible for my friend, John Gordon to treat any woman as he has treated you."

"Katherine, dear, my heart grows sick with apprehension because I fear that at this minute something may be happening that would make you unhappy, and because of my great love for you I can not be near you to smooth the way. The moonlight, this night, that was made for love is lost without you. Only in my thoughts, only in my dreams I feel you near me."

And then I saw him get up quickly and shake himself almost angrily as though he would put away everything of which he had been thinking—and I awakened to find it morning.

Becomes Disturbing.
For a long time I could not realize whether it had been a dream or whether my soul had been where Karl Shepard was. I was just as sure as I was sure that I had a awakened in my own room in the quiet town, and was looking out at the old cherry tree in full blossom just breast my window, that somewhere at that moment Karl Shepard was idling on a summer sea, thinking of me. The thought was disturbing. I knew I must put Karl out of my mind, for however much a woman is unhappy in her married life, however much she is soothed and flattered by the thought that some other man stands ready to make her as happy as possible, yet that way is dangerous. I rang the bell close to my bedside and Hannah came in with my rolls and coffee and my mail. I caught my breath with a little gasp, for there was a letter with a postmark on it from the other end of the world—and the superscription was in Karl Shepard's hand. For a long while I waited before I opened it, and then I read this unsigned poem:

Cherry trees in breathless splendor,
Blossom pink and white anew;
The little song birds trill with wonder
Of the very soul of you.
Love, can there be resurrection
After Winter's death-bells ring?
Are we reborn, incarnated?
Does Life then hold forth a spring?
Ah, but Love, were this thought certain,
All my sacred dreams come true.
All eternity I would give for
Just one moment filled with you.
Tomorrow—A Contrast in Letters.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

Don't neglect to serve some sort of greens nearly every day during the spring months. There are many wild herbs that our great-grandmothers used. When these weeds are very young they are tender and delicious.

Few people consider dock, purslane or cowslips as being edible. We think spinach and dandelions and beet tops constitute the category of our greens. For children it is especially necessary to furnish plenty of fresh vegetables. Spinach may even be served for breakfast with a poached egg.

The vegetable in season is always the best food for the body.

Menu for Tomorrow.

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, spinach with poached egg on toast, coffee.

LUNCH—Vegetable soup, toast, crackers, strawberry shortcake, tea.

DINNER—Breaded veal cutlets, new potatoes, peas, watercress salad, orange pudding, coffee.

My Own Recipes.

Strawberry shortcakes to be really appreciated should not follow a hearty meal. The shortcake furnishes a large amount of nourishment and is a heavy dessert. However, it is too good to do without and is nice to serve for luncheon with a nourishing soup.

SPINACH WITH POACHED EGG.

2 pounds spinach

4 eggs

2 squares toast

Butter

Wash spinach carefully and cook in its own juice. When almost done add 1 teaspoon salt. Drain and chop. Put on a piece of hot toast, make a depression in the center. Pour over melted butter. Fill hollow with

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.

BLACK SATIN SLIP WITH MANY TUNICS

Campbell

BY CORA MOORE.

New York's Fashion Authority.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A black slip with sleeves is a most useful article of apparel these days. If the top part is made on a belt of its own and interchangeable with a bandeau of the same black satin, therein is the foundation of a very complete and entirely satisfactory outfit that may all be enclosed in a week-end bag of ordinary proportions.

For instance, to be worn with the waist that has sleeves there is a tunic like the one illustrated of buff tulle or old blue serge. Another tunic of georgette transforms the black satin into a more formal daytime costume.

Then with the sleeveless bandeau a tunic of chiffon made with short sleeves or none at all makes a semi-formal dinner gown or a formal dance frock.

DEMOCRATS ADVERSE TO MANDATE REQUEST

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, administration leader in the treaty fight, said today he did not expect to support President Wilson's request for authority to accept a mandate over Armenia.

"I understand other Democratic members of the foreign relations committee also will not give their approval," said Senator Hitchcock. The senate committee plans to dispose of the president's request adversely tomorrow. Whether the committee will make an adverse report to the senate or let the president's message lie indefinitely in the committee had not been determined today.

KIND OF MEN WOMEN WILL CHOOSE

Women's Choice of Presidential Candidates Will Depend on Character

By MRS. A. BARTON HEPBURN, Treasurer, Women's Roosevelt Memorial Committee; Chairman Navy Club Campaign Committee; President City History Club

Women are going to demand for the head of government, a man who has the vision and the interest of all classes so highly developed as to include the interests of all people in all walks of life. He will, first of all, be fair and just. Such a man was Abraham Lincoln. He worked in a most self-sacrificing way for the welfare of his country.

We women want a man for president whom we know will not use this high office to enhance his own glory. We want a human man, in whose soul there registers the heart beats of the people of the country, their needs, their progress and their welfare.

Record of Good Work

We want a man whose record of work shows the greatest good to the greatest number, and who is so great and yet so simple of heart that he will be willing to consider and even accept the advice of experts on difficult subjects that confront the nation from time to time.

We want a man who represents the kind of chivalry that means self-sacrifice—deeds not words. Women don't care a bit for the brand of chivalry with which many men are imbued, because they know it is insincere. They prefer justice and plain common sense.

Demand High Ideals

The cook in the kitchen often has a keener insight into the fundamental needs and changes of government than the so-called successful business man.

One wouldn't employ a mechanic to teach Greek, and neither will the woman voters of the country elect a man who does not represent the high ideals for which they stand.

Moss-Grown Traditions

To the eighteen million odd women voters who are going to register their choice for the presidency this year, there cling none of the old political party traditions, nor moss-grown conventions and adherence to political faith to blind a clean choice of a man who will not only set a high standard of patriotism and national integrity, but who will work to accomplish those things which the people wish to have done, and particularly those things for which women have worked so long and so faithfully to achieve.

WHAT COLLEGE WILL MEAN TO YOU

By Lewette Beauchamp Pollock, (Teacher of English in East Technical High School, Cleveland, Ohio.)
I wish you high school girls who are going to college could see the dusty old volume I'm perusing!

It's full almost to bursting with all manner of queer things—soap-bubble pipes, funny signs, absurd pictures, dance programs, ribbons, letters, even locks of hair!

This bent hairpin, for instance, the shape of an "E" is the emblem of an honorable institution known as the Sage Silent Solumm Secret Society, which held all its meetings at the forbidden hour of midnight, when its initiates explored the ghastly regions of the dormitory from downstairs offices and parlors to shadowy regions of the attic, where an early breakfast of grapefruit and cookies was served from the tops of a couple of dusty trunks.

And here again is a wonderfully artistic snapshot of a dozen dancin' out for a hay-ride only you can't see the bar for girls spilling all over the sides!

This battered wooden plate decorated with autographs takes me back to the class picnics. Can you hear the crackling of the fire, the singing—and see our mad rush homeward to the "dorm" where we burst in to make the walls resound to the class yell?

But perhaps the "class stunts" are best of all, for every girl always takes part in those. If only as a member of a "chorus." One of my happiest memories has to do with a dishpan of gooey paste, a broom, and half a mile or so of scenic effects that had to be stuck together on short notice.

And parties? I remember a most successful affair at which a lemon stick, a doughnut and a glass of water were the sole edibles! There was such an abundance of "chumminess" that no one felt the absence of more substantial refreshments.

Telling of it all makes me want to go with you, and live over again the good times.

Will you take me?
You can't. Well at least you can know how glad I am for the fun that college has in store for you!

'PECK'S BAD BOY' COMING TO OGDEN

Of course you smiled today when you saw the billboards aflame with the announcement of the coming of your favorite play, "Peck's Bad Boy," and made a mental note to make no other engagement for that date, but to take the wife and children for an evening of wholesome recreation.

It must be twenty years or more since you first saw "Peck's Bad Boy" from a gallery seat, and you can't recall how many times you have seen it since, but you're going again, and you are going to laugh just as heartily as you did the first time you saw it.

The Bad Boy plays tricks on Schultz, the storekeeper, and Duffy, the policeman, just as of yore, only this season he has a lot of new and improved tricks you have never seen before. Schultz, the lovable old grocer, has prospered since you saw him last, and has added a shoe and ladies' suit and cloak department to his store, and you can readily understand this gives the Bad Boy and his pals a larger scope for their activities in the joking line.

The play has been entirely rewritten and is right up to the minute, and the Bad Boy (who is the best ever this season) is surrounded by a lot of pretty misses, singers, dancers and specialty artists.

The date of the Bad Boy's appearance at the Orpheum is Tuesday. Special matinee for ladies and children.

Clogged Muffler May Cause Loss of Power

According to a writer in the current issue of American Motorist, there are a number of causes which contribute to power losses in an engine, not the least of which is a partially stopped up or clogged muffler.

It is natural that the often narrow and tortuous passages of the muffler should be choked with carbon after a year's use, he says, but very often a remarkable improvement in engine efficiency is secured with no greater trouble than a temporary cleaning of the muffler which should be beaten with a wooden mallet or a piece of wood; this will loosen the worst accumulations which will then be blown out through the tail pipe. If the car is equipped with a muffler cut-out and there is a noticeable difference in power when the cut-out is closed and open a cleaning of the muffler, as indicated, should be undertaken at once.

'WEDDING BELLS' ALL STAR CAST

An all-winter success in New York was "Wedding Bells," the latest Selwyn Field comedy, which comes to the Orpheum theater for one performance on Wednesday evening, June 2, with the famous Broadway company intact. Featured among the distinguished players in this new Selwyn production are Margaret Lawrence, who returned to the stage to win greater fame than ever in "Tea for Three," and an equally gifted exponent of comedy, Wallace Eddinger, who is said to be renewing the enormous success he won in "The Boomerang." Having flown from her husband in their honeymoon days, she flies back, with all her old charm and assurance, when she hears that he is about to entangle himself again. The Selwyns are sending all the players who took part in the brilliant New York run. Seat sale opens tomorrow.

During the five and one-half years of war in France not a single automobile was sold to a private individual in that country.
